The Exceptional Potential of General Practice

A conference on 14 February 14:00-17:00 and 15 February 09:00-17:00

University of Strathclyde Technology and Innovation Centre, 99 George Street, Glasgow

General practitioners with knowledge and experience of local populations are best placed to consider the contributions they can make in serial encounters with individual patients, in practice organisation and delivery, in collaboration with others and campaigning for change on many fronts.

Content

- The ideas, example and memory of Julian Tudor Hart
- The Inverse Care Law
- The "Exceptional Potential of General Practice"
- How General Practitioners at the Deep End are addressing the Inverse Care Law
- Future challenges : social medicine, the wider world
- GP recruitment and retention, "it all depends on leadership at local level"
- What the future looks like for general practitioners

Speakers

Iona Heath	Graham Watt	Austin O'Carroll
Allyson Pollock	Peter Cawston	Jan De Maeseneer
Stewart Mercer	John Robson	Andy Haines

Plus speakers from the Scottish, Irish, Yorkshire/Humber and Greater Manchester Deep End Projects

Audience

The anticipated audience includes general practitioners at all stages of their careers, medical students and other health professionals interested in the contribution of general practice to health care and population health improvement. The conference will be based on short presentations with time for plenary discussion and informal conversation.
